3. Over the past twenty-two years, the Internet has developed and grown into what we have today, with little government oversight, and has resulted in major private investment by the nation's wired and wireless providers in modern, high-speed broadband networks. President Obama is now proposing that the federal government regulate and oversee the Internet similar to how it oversees the electric or gas public utility industry. Specifically, President Obama proposes allowing the Federal Communications Commission, for the first time, to regulate the Internet with the same authority it has used in the past to regulate monopoly telephone service. Do you think this would be more helpful or more harmful?

Helpful .....	32	[146]
Harmful.....	53
Some of both (VOL).....	6
Not sure.....	9

4. Are you aware that the term Net Neutrality does not include any government effort to protect consumers against spam and malware on the Internet?

Yes, aware.....	25	[147]
No, not aware .....	73
Not sure .....	2

5. Now I am going to read you several reasons why some people oppose the proposal for government regulation and control of the Internet. For each of the following, please tell me whether you consider this to be a major concern, a minor concern, or not a concern for you.

THIS TABLE HAS BEEN RANKED BY THE PERCENTAGE WHO SAY MAJOR CONCERN

	Major Concern	Some Concern	Not A Concern For You	Not Sure
The government will impose additional taxes and/or fees on all Internet bills .....	66	19	13	2	[149]
Reduced broadband investment may have an impact on domestic job growth and economic expansion.....	43	27	26	4	[153]
America could lose its position as the leader in Internet innovation and development as a result of new Internet regulations .....	41	29	27	3	[152]
Existing Internet services provided by leading Silicon Valley Internet companies may be reduced and terminated, which ultimately would hurt consumers.....	40	30	26	4	[151]
Innovation may be inhibited because Internet entrepreneurs will potentially be less likely to invest with the new Net Neutrality rules and regulations. ....	36	31	28	5	[150]

6. One principal concern raised by some people is that ONLY the five members of an unelected Federal Communications Commission, or FCC, will decide the future of the Internet without providing an opportunity for the public to see and understand the regulations prior to a vote. Opponents of the Internet regulation plan to seek public disclosure of the exact rules and specific regulations prior to the FCC's official vote. These groups say that, given the importance of the Internet in the daily lives of Americans, the FCC should provide greater information about the proposal to regulate the Internet to better understand its costs and benefits. Do you feel that greater disclosure of information by the FCC is necessary or do you feel that this proposal has been discussed and debated by all the major parties and this decision should be decided by the FCC?

Greater disclosure is necessary .....	73	[154]
Should be decided by the FCC.....	17
Not sure .....	10

7. Would you favor or oppose that the exact wording and the details of the proposal to regulate the Internet be made public before the Federal Communications Commission is allowed to cast its final vote on the issue of Net Neutrality?

Favor .....	79	[155]
Oppose.....	13
Not sure.....	8

8. Based on what you know about this issue, would you favor the FCC passing this regulation now as it currently stands, prefer to delay it until the full wording is made public, or not pass the regulation at all?

Favor passing this regulation now as it currently stands .....	9	[156]
Prefer to delay passing this regulation until the full wording is made public.....	60
Not pass the regulation at all .....	25
Not sure.....	6
